Molotov Doubts Policy Of Truman to Aid Democracy in Greece

LONDON, April 4 (BUP)—Soviet Foreign Minister M. Molotov was quoted by the Moscow radio today as saying that he doubted that President Truman's new foreign policy would help democracy in Greece.

Moscow broadcast a series of answers by Molotov to questions of Johannes Steel, United States commentator who came here after the start of the Big Four conference.

Molotov was quoted as saying that democratization in Greece was possible only if there was no interference in the internal affairs of the country.

Asked whether the Moscow conference would bring concrete results, Molotov was quoted as replying that the Soviet would do everything possible to that end.

Russia received much less in reparations from Germany than the other allies, Molotov was quoted as saying.

Asked if he thought a compromise on German unity could be reached, he replied:

"If the German people themselves agree to it."

The Moscow radio gave the following questions and Molotov's answers:

Q. Do you think the American proposals on the political organization of Germany will lead to the splitting up of that country?

A. Such a danger exists.

Q. What in your opinion would be the consequence of such a decision? A. The consequences of such a decision would be undesirable as they would give German militarists and adherents of revenge the idea of the possibility of taking into their own hands the cause of unification of Germany.

Central and Northern Alberta probably will have one more seat in Parliament after 1951 as a result of a considerable shift of population from the southern part of the province, Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, said in an interview here Friday.

Oppose de Gaulle

French Reds Hit At Truman Policy

By HARRISON SAILSBURY
British United Press
Foreign News Writer

President Truman's new foreign policy doctrine—balked by the unanimous approval of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee—today emerged as a key factor in the internal politics of yet another country—France.

THE TRUMAN issue was injected into French politics by the powerful French Communist party which has launched an all-out drive against the re-emergence of Gen. Charles de Gaulle as the leader of the French right-wing forces.

The Communist party leaders at a mass meeting of their followers in Paris linked their attacks on de Gaulle with equally fervent denunciation of Mr. Truman's program of spending American dollars to halt the tide of Communism in Greece and Turkey.

THE FRENCH Communists contended that the present Greek government would fall without American financial assistance but charged that the Greek government's weakness was due to lack of popular support within that country.

They tied in their attack with a charge that the British and the Americans were blocking agreement at Moscow by trying to build up a new strong Germany and opposing the efforts of French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault to insure that German military power should not be resurgent.

Twelve Lives Lost In Sea Disaster

PARIS, April 4 (Reuters)—The British steamship Willodale, out of Cardiff, sank outside the mouth of the Gironde river on the Atlantic coast of southern France today, with six men on board. Six other men died during rescue attempts by the French ship Egilfin.

THE EGILFIN was reported on her way to La Pallice with 10 survivors from the Willodale. The Willodale sailed from Bordeaux yesterday afternoon with a cargo of wooden poles. She was obliged to take refuge at Verdon shortly afterwards because of a heavy storm.

Sweden Cuts Home Paper Consumption

STOCKHOLM, April 4 (AP)—The Swedish government imposed controls on domestic paper sales Thursday in the hope of decreasing some consumption and increasing the country's exports of paper of all kinds—including newsprint.

The consumption of Swedish newspapers was reduced 10 per cent in 1946 and will be reduced an additional 15 per cent this year under an agreement signed last week.

Many Religious Ceremonies Held

Holy City Marks Good Friday With Backdrop Of Armed Troops

By Eliav Simon
JERUSALEM, April 4 (BUP)—Today was observed in the Holy City by Christians, Jews and Moslems in separate religious ceremonies while armed troops patrolled the sandbagged streets.

CHRISTIAN GOOD Friday pilgrims gathered at the church of the Holy Sepulchre. Jews began their eight-day feast of the Passover. Moslems honored the Prophet Moses in the Nebi Musa feast.

Roman Catholic worshippers packed the chapel of Calvary early this morning for the Mass of the Pre-Sanctified. Troops of the King's Own Scottish Borderers lined both sides of the narrow streets as the adoration of the cross ceremony opened.

British police were assigned to guard the Via Dolorosa where the nine stations of the cross were traversed by devout Christians. Short sermons were delivered at each station.

CHRISTIAN ARABS in their red turbans mingled with Americans and Europeans in the western cemeteries.

U.S. Not Likely To Seize Phones

By CHARLES H. HERROLD
WASHINGTON, April 4 (BUP)—A high administration official said today there was "little chance" the government would seize the telephone industry to prevent the U.S. wide telephone strike set for 6 a.m. Monday.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN told his news conference yesterday that government lawyers were making a study to determine whether he has seizure power. This official said such power would rest on certain clauses in the federal communications act and an interpretation that the nation was still at war.

"I think we'd have to stretch the law to seize the telephone industry," he said. "And I'm not sure we would want to take over even if it is legal."

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Attorney General Tom Clark said today President Truman has the right to seize the United States telephone industry in the current labor dispute. Clark told reporters at the White House, after a cabinet meeting, that seizure authority exists under the federal communications act.

THE DEPARTMENT said the Greco-Turkish aid program would forestall "armed conflicts" which might undermine world peace. At the same time, it served notice that the United States would give all possible aid to any other nations threatened by Communist minorities—whether inspired from within or abroad.

The department's views were set forth in a document answering 111 questions asked by anxious senators who soon will vote on President Truman's $400,000,000 Greco-Turkish aid bill. It was the first foreign policy blueprint of its kind ever submitted to congress.

THE DOCUMENT was made public as the senate foreign relations committee unanimously approved the Greco-Turkish aid bill. First, however, the committee added a proviso that the United Nations, by majority vote, could terminate the U.S. aid program at its discretion. Such a decision could not be vetoed by the United States or any other member of the UN Security Council.

Zephyr derailed by tractor

2 Killed, 34 Injured In U.S. Train Wreck

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—Two persons were killed and approximately 34 persons injured when the Burlington railroad's streamlined Twin City Zephyr jumped the tracks after being derailed by a tractor at suburban Downers Grove last night.

EDITH HELLAND, Minneapolis, died today at Hinsdale sanitarium where she had been taken after the wreck with both legs fractured, a fractured rib and internal injuries. Killed instantly was L. W. Wright, 50, a passenger, who was trapped in a coach after the speeding train crashed into the Downers Grove railroad station.

Carl Krohl, of the railroad's claims department, said seven passengers and the engineer and fireman still were in hospital. Approximately 25 persons were treated for minor injuries and released, he said.

THE TRACTOR had fallen off a westbound freight train that had just passed on an adjoining track and into the path of the stainless steel streamliner, eastbound from Minneapolis to Chicago.

The crash in a flash of flame and shower of falling bricks ripped up three sets of tracks nine miles east of Naperville, Ill., where 45 persons died last April 25 in a collision of two Burlington passenger trains.

Buildings Head Retiring April 30

Announcement was made on Friday that W. D. Stacey, superintendent of buildings for the provincial government, would retire from his post April 30.

He will be succeeded by Arthur Arnold, now in charge of housing for the department of economic affairs.

Mr. Stacey has been with the department of public works for ten years, before which he was a building contractor on his own account.

Mr. Arnold came to Edmonton first with the federal government's Central Loan and Mortgage Corporation and National Housing Administration. He transferred to the provincial government about a year ago.

Police Seek Purse Snatcher

Police were searching Friday for a six-foot, slim built, purse-snatcher who made off with a purse belonging to Mrs. L. F. Waters, 11644 97 street, about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

The woman told police she was proceeding along 117 avenue and while passing a lane between 96 and 97 streets the man jumped out, grabbed her purse and ran away.

Mrs. Waters said the man was wearing a light colored overcoat and a hat. The purse contained $7 cash, a ration book, two bank books and a CNR railway pass.

Not Unfriendly Act to Russia

Say Aid Program Will Avert Wars

By John L. Steel
WASHINGTON, April 4 (BUP)—The State department declared today that Russia would not be justified in regarding US intervention in Greece and Turkey as an unfriendly act calling for "retaliatory measures."

THE DEPARTMENT said the Greco-Turkish aid program would forestall "armed conflicts" which might undermine world peace. At the same time, it served notice that the United States would give all possible aid to any other nations threatened by Communist minorities—whether inspired from within or abroad.

Also Silesia's Rich Industrial District

MOSCOW, April 4 (BUP)—It was learned authoritatively today that the United States will propose to the Big Four that the industrially-rich Ruhr Valley in Western Germany and the industrial area of Silesia now under Polish administration be placed under United Nations administration and control.

By John M. Hightower

MOSCOW, April 4 (AP)—The Council of Foreign Ministers, thoroughly entangled in disagreement, tackled the question of what form the future government of Germany shall take amid mounting evidence today that the Big Four was losing, rather than gaining, ground in the current deliberations.

Already, diplomats are beginning to argue whether the Moscow conference should be written off as a failure.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay's statement in Berlin yesterday that "all hope has been given up of reaching a settlement on reparations at this conference" was viewed by most Moscow observers as a correct estimate of the situation, but some authorities argued that the final evaluation could not be made until the last session is held.

THE LINE taken by these latter is that the meeting has been useful in pointing up and dramatizing the conflicts between the Russians and the western powers, while at the same time providing a rock-bottom foundation for future negotiation.

The strangling deadlock on the reparations issue, which Gen. Clay said could not be settled at this conference, blocks any action on the economic future of Germany, which in turn seems to stymie decisive action on the beaten country's political future and other peace treaty problems.

STATE SECRETARY Marshall offered a compromise on the reparations issue yesterday, but there was no indication of Russian acceptance.

Last night's meeting brought the worst round of backtracking to date, when the ministers failed to maintain agreement even on points of democratization of population transfers on which their representatives, meeting earlier as a committee, had already reached accord.

Tallow Factory Man Doesn't Worry Blackie

NORFOLK, Va., April 4 (AP)—Blackie, stranded whale, oblivious of the tallow factory man with the gleam in his eye, churned the waters of Little Creek today as the United States Navy and Coast Guard passed the buck to each other on who should dispatch the 80-foot mammal.

J. W. Field, vice-president of a tallow factory, said he understood the Coast Guard would kill Blackie today and that he had hired a tug to tow the carcass to his plant for rendering fat and oil.

However, Coast Guard spokesmen said: "We kill Blackie? No indeed. He's at the amphibious training base and that's navy property."

Navy spokesmen said: "We kill Blackie? Nothing doing. That's a job for the coast guard." No Blackie stays hard aground.

Rotarians Are Hosts

Service Clubs Hold Joint Good Fellowship Meeting

Returning the good-fellowship theme, Kiwanis club members, President Roy W. Henry, Walker Blake, Lou White, Stewart Thomas, and song leader Alan Macdonald, attended the Rotary club luncheon in the Macdonald hotel on Thursday. A few other guests of the Rotarians, which included two students, were also present. On Monday, the Kiwanis club played hosts to some Rotarians.

BRUCE MASSIE presented brooms to skipper Bill Bruce, G. Lord, Bill Freeman and Johnny Glasgow.

Chairman Roy Henry expressed his happiness in seeing the two clubs co-operate so well.

"The Four Phases of Income Tax" was the subject on which the speakers based their speeches. Stewart Thomas gave an address on income tax as applied to farmers.

A new system has been devised by the Income Tax department, where farmers would be able to average their income tax over a three year period.

LOU WHITE complimented the farmers by saying that they were very necessary to the public as a whole, but on the other hand the farmer usually forgets that others are necessary to him. He pointed out that the farmers have been on strike since 1941 as far as income tax was concerned.

A humorous story about the income tax, based on facts, but with fictitious characters, was given by Joel Smith.

Walter Blake spoke on the problem of income tax of working wives. If a wife earns up to 250 dollars, no income tax is deducted from the husband, but if she earns more than 250 dollars, the husband is taxed. A wife earning more than $750 a year is taxed as a single person.

agree that the German people themselves should decide the question of federalization by way of referendum.

Q. WOULD IT be enough for Germany to pay reparations to the amount of $10,000,000,000 in order to cover a considerable extent the damage done by the German invaders? A. For the Soviet Union it would naturally be little, but it could give some sort of satisfaction to the Soviet people.

Q. Are reparations first and foremost a question of economy or morale? A. Reparations are important in both respects.

Q. Who received more reparations up to the present moment, Great Britain, the United States, or the Soviet Union? A. It undoubtedly is not the Soviet Union which has received considerably less than the Allies.

Q. HOW CAN German peace-time production be raised so reparations could be paid out of current production? A. By means of a certain increase of the level of peace-time production in Germany so that part of the production in metals, coal, etc., can be used for payment of reparations to countries which suffered damage.

Q. How can democracy in Greece be best restored? A. The best way is renouncing foreign interference in the internal affairs of Greece.

Q. Do you believe President Truman's proposed American policy on Greece will restore democracy in Greece? A. I doubt this very much, just as many others do.

Q. DO YOU believe the Moscow conference of foreign ministers served a useful purpose and will bring some concrete results? A. It is desirable that the Moscow conference be of maximum use in our common cause, but this depends not upon the Soviet delegation alone. In any case, the Soviet delegation will do everything in its power for the conference to bring beneficial results.

Holy City

dates from the conquest of the Holy City by Saladin in the 12th century. It began as a counter-attraction to the Christian Easter celebration, but long ago developed into a political demonstration. Moslems from throughout Palestine swarmed into Jerusalem to impress "unbelievers" with the armed might of Islam.

Clashes between Christian and Moslem pilgrims were frequent before the First World War. With the advent of Zionism, however, Haj Amin El Hussein, the former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, directed Moslem emotions against the Jewish "invasion."

THE MOSLEM procession today seemed to lack its old ferocity and enthusiasm. Demonstrators shouted anti-Zionist slogans, but their eyes were on the soldiers guarding the streets.

With the Grand Mufti in Cairo, the Moslem procession this year was almost purely religious as it wound through the old city down to the Dead Sea where, according to Moslem tradition, the Prophet Moses was buried.

PILGRIMS FROM abroad were fewer this year than before the war, but hotel keepers and souvenir vendors were kept busy.

By The Canadian Press
The most sacred festival of the Christian year began throughout the world with Good Friday church services commemorating the Crucifixion.

IN WASHINGTON, President Truman called on the United States to participate in Good Friday church services saying that the world in recent years has learned "many lessons which the mystery of sorrow teaches."

In Britain, thousands of holiday-makers caught trains for France and for the south coast of England.

In Europe, strikes and disorders quelled as millions took part in religious ceremonies.

MANY CANADIANS were able to get away from cities for the long week-end and left to visit friends in the country or to take a last fling at skiing at mountain resorts. Many attended church services while thousands paraded in Easter finery.

population, but Mr. MacKinnon does not think this will be indicated after the next complete census when he estimates the province will have at least 800,000 people. Last, incomplete enumeration, which did not take into account some 5,000 servicemen stationed overseas or elsewhere in Canada, set the population at 795,000.

Negotiations are still going ahead between the City of Edmonton and the federal authorities on the most suitable site for the new federal building to be erected here, with the most likely choice at the moment being on 100 street about one block north of the Qu'Appelle building. The building will probably cost around $2,000,000.

WHILE FAVORING a Trans-Canada highway by way of Edmonton and Jasper to Vancouver, Mr. MacKinnon said he considered an all-weather road connecting Edmonton with Grande Prairie and the Alaska Highway as the most "urgent highway need" for Alberta at the present time.

Otherwise, the minister pointed out, British Columbia seems likely to divert the bulk of the traffic from the Yukon and Alaska to the west coast.

CANADA'S OVERSEAS trade is "holding up amazingly well," the minister observed.

"What I would like to see now is a greater diversification of Canada's foreign trade, which means trade spread over a greater number of nations."

The minister does not think there will be a Dominion election for some time.

"THE GOVERNMENT still has three years of a normal term in office. It seems to me there is no reason to think at this time there will be a general election before the end of the normal term of office."

There is at the moment no likelihood either of an early national convention of the Liberal party to select a successor to Prime Minister Mackenzie King as leader of the party, in the opinion of Mr. MacKinnon, who said speculative stories published about such a convention this coming June, have not been confirmed by government leaders.

THE MINISTER expressed satisfaction over the recent by-election in Montreal-Cartier, where a Liberal was returned to office.

"The additional pleasing feature of the election, besides the defeat of the Communist candidate, was the fact that Masse, endorsed by Premier Duplessis of Quebec, ran a poor second."

WINDSOR, Ont., April 4—(CP)—"Frustrated" United States gamblers heavy losers in a "feud" with Canadian bookies, were blamed today by Chief Constable Claud Renaud for reports that gambling is wide-open in Windsor. The report was asked by the commission after widespread newspaper accounts of gambling and vice in this border city neighbor of Detroit.

Many "Finest" Ladies In Big Easter Parade

Timid, but lively, bunnies, florid-faced Indians, hard-riding cowboys, stalwart soldier and swanky sailors, were among the many characters participating in a grand Easter Parade sponsored by the Westmount Community League on Thursday afternoon.

THE COLORFUL characters mentioned above were tiny tots ranging in age from two and a half to five years.

The long and impressive parade formed up at and started from the Westmount Community hall and went from there to 111 avenue and returned for dispersal at the hall.

Preceding the parade, a contest was staged inside the hall, as the children marched in a circle led by Bert Pettigrew, supervisor of the pre-school class. "The Happy Gang" was the name they gave themselves, and it was inscribed on two placards held by two of the children.

A contest for best-dressed participants was held.

IN THE BEST dressed boy class, Bobby Cornish, 5 years old; Ralph Walker, 3, and Randolph Kay were the winners, while the best dressed girls chosen were Catherine Smithgate, 5; Sharon Aylesworth, 2, and Pat Siminon, 2.

In the comical class, the boys winning prizes were Tommy Brown, 3; Jackie Martin, 5, and Melvin Gerard, 3, while the most comical girls were Judy Aldridge, 3; Carol Pettigrew, 5, and Carol McKinnon, 5.

During the best dressed girl episode, the judges, George Makepeace, Jack Reilly and Miss Sydney Fleet encountered a slight error. One contestant they thought was a girl, turned out to be a boy, but nevertheless, he received a special prize.

To top the occasion in a truly Easter spirit, a live milky-white rabbit participated in the small parade inside the hall, led by a small boy bunny.

The conclusion of the program, which followed the parade, was a highlight, the reason being that ice cream was served as the parade.

Truman Supports Krug Against UMW

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Interior Secretary J. A. Krug yesterday won the unqualified support of President Truman in his controversy with John L. Lewis over coal mine operations.

Truman told his press conference that Krug was an able public official and that he had no intention of removing him. The United Mine Workers chief called for Krug's ouster yesterday in a long discourse before a congressional committee on the Centralia mine disaster.

Truman would not comment directly on Lewis' criticism of Krug. He said Krug would answer these charges himself.

Newsman Taken on 3-Hour Tour

Lift Kremlin's Curtain of Secrecy

BY ROSS MUNRO
MOSCOW, April 4.—(CP)—Soviet officials today lifted at least some of the curtain of mystery which hangs over the Kremlin when they took me and 10 British correspondents on a three-hour tour of this small, walled township with its ancient red brick battlements and towers in the centre of Moscow.

THIS REALLY is the heart of Russia because from the Kremlin the decisions of Prime Minister Stalin and the Politburo go out to 130,000,000 Russians and to the world. It is here the Supreme Soviet—the Russian parliament—holds its sessions, which last only a few days each year, in "the grand Kremlin palace" with representatives from all 16 republics present.

Stalin lives inside the Kremlin and most members of the politburo work here. Nobody in the party was certain as to whether they saw Stalin's modest yellow house for although we passed a lot of houses, when we asked our guide he took evasive action by saying: "Really very few people live here."

BUT WE did see one large and fairly modern building near the main clocktower gate which likely contained executive offices for top officials.

A surprising feature was the fact that there were a lot of structures inside the Kremlin walls which had nothing to do with the running of Russia. There were a cluster of a half-dozen ancient churches and four or five museums loaded with Czarist jewels, clothes, couches, thrones, weapons, paintings and extravagant gold and silver dishes and porcelain furniture.

With a Russian foreign office representative we went into the Kremlin through "the gate of the forest," through which Napoleon entered.

Only two young Red Army sentries stand with fixed bayonets by the archway of the towers.

THE PERMISSION we obtained was exceptional and probably never before has a group of newspapermen such as ours been shown around for three hours. We first walked along a macadam avenue up a slope to what was called cathedral square, flanked by a cluster of three churches as old as Moscow's 800 years.

There were three other churches which were a couple of centuries more modern. All had shining gilt domes like huge Spanish onions topped by crosses. One of them contains the tomb of 47 Russian Czars.

Communism Is Alternative

Business Must Find Answer For Problems of Industry

Businessmen must find the answer to problems of production and distribution and must remove distrust and misunderstanding which exists between industry and labor, or Canada will face, within the near future, a Communist system of government under guidance of Moscow.

THAT WAS THE warning given to members of the Alberta Branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, by Harper Prowse, M.L.A., guest speaker at dinner which marked opening of the annual meeting of the branch at the Macdonald hotel Thursday evening.

"If you like our way of life, as you must, if you would give to your sons the same opportunities you have enjoyed yourselves, if you love Canada, you will take up this burden, nor will you cease in your labors until you have found the answers which only you are qualified to find," Mr. Prowse told them.

The world today is frightened, Mr. Prowse suggested, frightened that the grim days of the depression might return, and haunted also by insecurity.

Security was being given a higher place in the minds and hearts of men than liberty, he said, and suggested one of the problems of the world was to give men both liberty and bread. Given that choice today most men, he feared, would choose bread.

THE GROWTH of Communism was shockingly evidenced by disclosure nearly a year ago that a spy ring existed in Canada. These persons, in a great majority had found themselves insecure under our economy and had turned to the country and given loyalty to a system which promised them what they thought was their due.

Out of the labor force of 4,800,000 in Canada, more than 50 per cent earn less than $100 a month, nearly 2,000,000 less than $80 a month.

Thousands have no decent place to live, and thousands more are paying too much for shelter and have difficulty in providing themselves with necessary food, let alone the purchase of those luxuries which make life worth living.

It would be senseless to try to convince these people that they

Fear Competition Reds in Fishing

VICTORIA, April 4 (CP)—Strong Russian competition for mastery of Pacific Northwest fishing industry was foreshadowed yesterday E. V. Alexander, commissioner of fisheries for British Columbia said.

"THE DANGER is very real," he said. "Russians may invade Pacific waters like the Japanese did before the war. Like the Japanese they may constitute just as great a threat to Canadian and United States fishing interests."

He said the B.C. government was keeping a watchful eye on Russian activities.

Mr. Alexander commented following reports from Washington that told of Senator Magnuson reporting to the state department that Russians using 16 former U.S. vessels have "invaded" northern waters.

Lilienthal Scores Victory in Senate

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—David E. Lilienthal, President Truman's choice for chairman of the United States atomic energy commission, scored a major victory yesterday when the Senate refused 52 to 38, to send his nomination back to committee for a check by the federal Bureau of Investigation. This was widely interpreted as meaning that the Senate will confirm Lilienthal when a final vote comes, perhaps next week.

would be worse off under Communism, since they believe that they could not be worse off under any circumstances.

It was not a matter of philanthropy, Mr. Prowse said, to try to raise the wage level above bare subsistence. Markets will disappear, and depression return unless this change was brought about and then we again would be faced with depression. From this we would emerge with a changed economic and political system.

THIS WOULD merge into a form of Russian Communism "under direct control of Moscow, complete with secret police, concentration camps and everything else that goes to make up the Russian way of life," he said.

Though Russia was our ally during the war against Nazism she was a reluctant one, since she did not enter the war until forced to by invasion. She accepted all the help we could offer, gave little in return and demanded more and more, Mr. Prowse said.

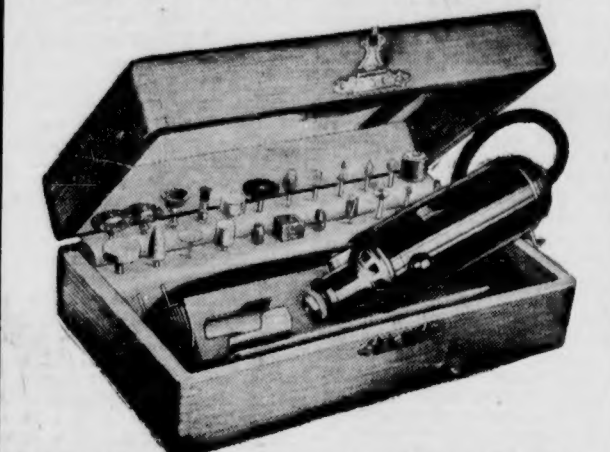

THE COMMUNISTS had decided that democratic freedom of the capitalist system and Communism could not live in the same world together and they were daily giving evidence of that belief.

Individual freedom is endangered, he thought, and though he admitted it might be considered idealistic he suggested the cure for our problems rested in the universal application of the Golden Rule.

Vestibule Visitors

The efficiency of Edmonton street car service is materially reduced by the visitors who entertain the motorman in the front lobbies of the cars.

It is, or used to be, contrary to the rules of the transportation system to engage the motorman in conversation while he is driving his car. If that is not still the rule, it should be. But, day in and day out, some motormen are engaged in almost constant conversation by acquaintances or lobby-riding passengers.

Surely it is not inappropriate to point out that operating a street car is a job of work—not a social event. Moreover, it is a highly responsible job of work, with the lives and safety of passengers and people on the street depending upon the motorman's strict attention to duty.

No man, however skilled and experienced, can safely operate a street car with half his mind on the chit-chat of a companion.

Once upon a time, these driving-lobby conversations were rare. Today they are all too frequent. It is time transportation officials checked on them before they become more of a habit than they are now. For the safety of the public is not to be made secondary to the social impulses of conversational passengers.

A Tenth Province?

A six-man delegation from Newfoundland is to visit Ottawa, to discuss a proposal that the island colony join the Dominion and become its tenth province. The supporters of the movement apparently mean business and represent a substantial part of the population, since the mission is the outcome of what is described as a national convention, held at St. Johns.

Newfoundland is still administered by a commission which was set up twelve or more years ago to replace the legislature, when the finances got badly tangled. It was announced at the time that Canada was sharing with Britain a proportion of the financial responsibility involved, but whether this arrangement still holds has not been announced.

The commission rule is evidently the reason for the annexation proposal. For it is stated that the delegation will also discuss with officials at Ottawa the questions of continuing the commission and of restoring responsible government; as alternatives to the island entering Confederation.

Canadians very generally would not doubt welcome Newfoundland to the family of provinces, and there are no known reasons why federal and provincial authorities should object. Provided, of course, the colony came in on an equal footing as regards finances and provincial powers. There is no cause to suppose that special concessions would be asked for.

It is a geographic anomaly that this great island which blocks and guards the mouth of the St. Lawrence should politically lie outside Canada. Its people are drawn from the same racial sources. Its position offers opportunity for the development of mutually beneficial trade. It has timber and other resources which Canadian capital could bring into use. And, on the other side of the question, it is the natural bastion from which Canada's Atlantic seaboard can best be protected.

If the Newfoundlanders want to join they will quite certainly find Canadians not only willing, but ready to accord them a most cordial reception.

A National Obligation

Canada should take care of Igor Gouzenko, the man who exposed the spy-ring at Ottawa at the cost of his job and the risk of his life.

As a result of this exposure ten public servants have been convicted of the betrayal of official secrets, another has been rounded-up and sentenced in Britain, another is awaiting trial, while two others are hiding somewhere from the police. These convictions established the truth of Gouzenko's charge that an espionage conspiracy had been formed at Ottawa—and thereby make Canada his debtor.

All his life Gouzenko will be a marked man because he did this service to Canada. It is therefore the duty of Canadian authorities to afford him and his family the fullest possible protection against the enemies he has made.

It does not discharge this debt that a private citizen has provided Gouzenko with a modest life annuity. It is rather a reflection on parliament that this should be necessary. The members should make it their business to see that he and his have the means of a satisfactory livelihood, but also that they are shielded against the vengeance of those whom he has offended.

Corporation Earnings

Those who have any illusions about fabulous profits pocketed by large corporations will be interested in a break-down of the sale's dollar contained in the annual report of Mr. John Holmes, president of Swift and Company, and published in that organization's year book for 1946.

It will be noted the brochure, including the report mentioned, was prepared in the United States from data mostly from American sources. Yet it contains an overall picture of complete operations on this continent, lacking any attempt to separate transactions into territories. Nor are conditions perfectly comparable all through; for instance, the corporation's contest with the black market.

Here, however, is the way the company's sales' dollar was distributed in 1946: Primary producers got 75 cents; supplies cost 4.8 cents; salaries and wages, 12.6 cents; transportation (railroad and trucking), 2 cents; interest-bearing obligations, rent, telegraph, telephone, etc., 2.8 cents; depreciation (to be used to replace equipment, plant, etc.) 0.5 cents; taxes, including unemployment insurance and old-age benefits, 1 cent; balance remaining with the company as earnings 1.3 cents.

A Notable "Whodunit"

When an hon. member complained in the Ontario legislature that the former police protection had been withdrawn, the attorney-general accepted responsibility "after getting to know hon. members for four sessions and the fact that they did not pick each other's pockets."

Perhaps it is a cynical commentary that it took four sessions to convince the attorney-general on this point. But he admitted that his real reason for calling off the police was that it was "more in keeping with the atmosphere."

Still the complaining member was not satisfied. Personal property of members, he said, was not safe, and he proved it by saying he had had his own "perfectly good overcoat" stolen.

"That," answered the attorney-general, "was when the police were here."

Meaning that the Ontario legislature was safer without the police than with them, or that the policemen had been there to protect hon. members from each other?

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1887: 60 Years Ago

The news appearing in last week's telegrams that Sir John A. Macdonald is to retire from the leadership of the Conservative party to become governor-general is something of a chestnut. It has been repeated so often without being denied once that it is very likely to be true. There is no man in the party who would be really acceptable to the public as leader of the government. What more natural than that the better elements of the Conservative party should rally around Blake, who is sufficiently Conservative in his Liberalism, and who, retaining the most Conservative elements of the Liberal party, would be able to form a stronger government than any other man in public life today.

The people of Lethbridge and Southern Alberta generally, having by their votes, when the choice was offered them, endorsed monopoly instead of voting against it, the government cannot be blamed for reconsidering the determination at which they had almost apparently arrived, to do away with the monopoly clauses in the CPR charter.

BRIDGE

by Webster

From Far Corners

BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

Professor Tom Irving writes me from University of San Carlos, Guatemala, Central America, to urge folks who want to combine learning with their vacation to go down to their summer school. For fifty dollars they give courses in Spanish, history, literature and just about everything connected with Latin America.

Courses run from July 3 to August 14. The airlines have special rates.

Tom was at our Canadian naval headquarters during the war—the only Canadian I know who speaks Spanish and Arabic as well as English.

He says: "I can't understand why more people from the United States don't come down here. If you want a very pleasant trip, climate, scenery and all the servants you want, come down here."

SPEAKING OF servants, I notice that several thousand British families have wangled permits to bring in householders from Germany.

I can't see anything against it myself. Don't see why we don't do the same, thing here in North America.

But I'm not so much interested in that as in importing whole boatloads of European child orphans, regardless of nationality.

Statistics do not mean much. But when you figure that there are hundreds of thousands of homeless, friendless war orphans, and when

When the trading nations try to reconstruct a world economy desolated by a generation of protectionism and war, they encounter at once a formidable new obstacle—the state monopoly. Since a government, unlike a private trader, may make bilateral trade deals and barriers for political and non-economic reasons the principle of state trading seems at first to deny the principles of the new world trade charter.

The charter as tentatively drafted in London last autumn attempts a compromise between the practice of the private and the state trader. It accepts the practical fact that some nations intend to trade through the government and it seeks to lay down rules governing such trade to prevent it undermining fair multilateral private trade.

Wherever a trade monopoly is established by a government the charter requires it to operate, both in exporting and importing, "solely by commercial consideration. Spelled out in simple language, this means that if the British government for example, intends to buy a certain quantity of wheat it must buy where it can get the lowest price and the best quality.

The enforcement of these principles of non-discrimination in deals between state traders will be difficult. But the charter binds the signatories in general terms and it attempts to provide some detailed means of enforcement.

FIRST, IF TWO governments make a bilateral trade deal, excluding other nations, any other signatory of the charter can complain. In that case the government concerned are bound to negotiate with the complaining nation, and to consider, for example, its offer to buy at the prices fixed in the deal.

Second, a government engaged in importing may be required to fix publicly the price at which it will sell its imports in the home market. It must say, for example, that it is importing a given commodity at a certain price per ton and that it will sell the commodity only at a fixed margin above the price.

In the same way a government exporter must fix the price margin at which it sells abroad over the price in the home market. In both cases the margin must not exceed actual business costs and the prevailing customs duties. In short, state monopolies are bound to sell and buy at the lowest possible price and to deal on identical terms with all customers.

Third, state importers are bound to import sufficient of any product to supply the full domestic you think how easy it would be for us to look after them here, it makes you wonder what's wrong with us. What's holding our governments back?

Everlasting talk, talk, talk—but very little action on the humane front.

FRANK WELLINGTON runs an inter-denominational mission which serves communities in interior B.C. where there are no organized churches. He could use any kind of illustrated Bible picture lesson charts. Thinks I may know some church where they now have electricity and so don't need the old kind.

Says he will pay the express charges to 546 Fifth Ave., Kamloops, B.C.

IN VIEW OF the fact that I didn't know of the famous Roman Catholic padre's library in Reserve Mines, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, when I recently wrote that there was no "public" library in the district, I hereby make amends.

Maybe readers in Canada or the United States have books which the famous Father Jimmy Tompkins could use in that library. He is one of this continent's grand teachers—as broad-minded as they come anywhere—beloved by all creeds.

There is no customs tariff on God books when sent across the line as gifts. At least, I never pay any.

THE REVEREND E. F. Molnar represents the Presbyterian church in western Canada in the Hungarian communities. Since 1911 he has been engaged on remarkable research—to prove the existence of God on a scientific basis—that is, using precisely the same methods that scientists use to prove or disprove anything else.

He has to his credit a list of books as long as your arm, in French as well as English, and his native Hungarian. But their main theme is "wakefulness." He has built up an imposing array of scientific arguments to prove that wakefulness is itself a phenomenon with certain properties which can be classified in such a way as to demonstrate the certain existence of God.

The stuff is beyond my depth, because he has formula by Einstein and all that sort of thing. But he has the students and professors in the universities talking about it.

In baseball talk, he has plenty on the ball. His latest booklet is "The Common Daily Wakefulness and God."

MOLNAR WAS strongly under the influence of Dr. John R. Mott when he was a student at Geneva. Those were the days when Lenin was hiding out in Switzerland.

The students used to talk with him, argue with him, in coffee houses. Lenin admitted that the picture drawn by Jesus of the Kingdom was the noblest that humanity had. But he could not believe in God, saying, "Your God is a fraud."

Young Molnar decided to spend his life trying to prove otherwise.

The State Monopoly

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

demand. They cannot use the state monopoly as a means of restricting purchases abroad. However, an essential exception is allowed. Where a nation is rationing a certain article account must be taken of this fact in the enforcement of the charter. In the case of an export monopoly a government is bound to sell abroad all the supplies available for export. It cannot use its monopoly to restrict exports unreasonably and thus damage imports.

Fourth, state traders are bound to promote the expansion of foreign trade in accordance with the basic objective of the charter. To this end every state trader is bound to negotiate with other members for general tariff reductions. Where such reductions are granted by private-trade countries in favor of a state trader, the latter must undertake to import a minimum amount of foreign products over a fixed period. In other words it cannot gain tariff concession from private traders and then restrict the importation of private trader's goods.

It is possible to perceive many loopholes through these rules. A state monopoly desiring to import from another similar monopoly, even at above world market prices, could claim that only the particular goods of that exporter were satisfactory in quality.

However, where evasions occur the final sanctions of the International Trade Organization can be invoked. Any member violating its rules can be haled into court. As a final penalty it can be ejected from the Organization. But with all the proposed safeguards, state trading is bound to prove one of the chief difficulties in the way of establishing maximum trade. Of this fact the best proof is that the great state traders of the past, the strongest protectionist and comparatively the smallest traders.

The Illegitimate Wretch
Ottawa Journal
We trust more of our readers than Scots will have read and noted the extracts printed in our Side Lights column of a sermon preached in Dundee by Rev. Harry Law, in what the Glasgow Evening Bulletin called "braid Scots".

Mr. Law took as his text "And Saul, like the lave, geed hame tae Gibeah," which being interpreted according to the Authorized Version reads: "And Saul also went home to Gibeah." Then Mr. Law proceeded to develop the idea:

"Decent folk gae hame when their work's done. It's theither, illegitt wretches that fill the public houses and bide out late and only gae hame when their scunnerfu' howffs skell them out on the causey."

Now that seems clear enough, and dramatically phrased. What the Dundee parson was saying, we gather, was that the chap who hasn't enough sense to go home when his work is done, but instead, the illegitt wretch, hangs around the pub and gets himself a skinnfu' ("scunnerfu'") needn't be surprised if presently he is tossed out on his ear ("skell them out on the causey"). And that, we should say, is an admirable sentiment as applicable in Ottawa as in Dundee, and whether put in English or in "braid Scots".

As Mr. Law says it so well, "It's hame that matters the maist. Whil we dae oot-bye coonts michty little efter a', and fowk are fell foolish no' to seek the kingdom of hame."

When the Sussex Kent Tribunal was told by a litigant that a bungalow under discussion was "not fit for a pig to live in," Wilfred L. Dell, deputy chairman, commented:

"During the 1914-18 war I had to spend a night in a pigsty. I must say that with a little straw I spent a more comfortable night than I should have done in some of the premises I have inspected while I have been on this tribunal."

Yours very truly, first ava, an' syne the ither things efter". And if that means what we suspect it means it's telling the illegitt wretch that if he must have his wee nip let him get safely hame first. But we may be wrong, as the parson would say, "fell foolish".

The Secret Ballot

BY HARPER PROWSE, MLA

The annual report of the Social Credit board for the year 1946 which was tabled during the recent session of the Alberta Legislature is a most amazing document. And among the more startling statements which appear in it is that part of it dealing with the secret ballot which it condemns.

"It is of real interest," the report reads, "and importance to consider the secret ballot as an instrument of democracy. Its original purpose was to protect the voter against being unjustly penalized because he voted for the candidate of a political party contrary to the wishes of his employer or other person. This is a very laudable purpose but it is also true that there must be something wrong with the system under which we live when individuals are so insecure and subservient to other individuals that they dare not let it be known how they marked their ballot."

It goes on: "The great weakness of the secret ballot lies in the fact that it relieves the voter of the personal responsibility which every democratic citizen should assume."

JUST WHY the Social Credit board should be trying to discredit the secret ballot is a question to which anybody is entitled to an opinion—and one man's opinion is probably as good as another. But their reasoning is certainly open to question.

In the first place the secret ballot was instituted not merely to protect the voter but to enable him to cast his ballot after a consideration of the question before him without having his decision weighed by outside considerations. All of us know of instances where men and women have suffered and lost their jobs because they were frank about expressing political opinions. But this, it seems to me, is an indictment of human nature rather than of "the system" as the report states.

Nobody likes to have somebody displease him, and particularly dislikes having anybody do anything which prevents him from getting what he wants. So long as this trait remains in human nature—which will probably be always—it is important that we should retain the secret ballot.

UNDER AN OPEN ballot system every man who cast a vote would have to consider what effect his ballot would have on his friendships, his employer, his customers, his business associates. Under the secret ballot system he need only consider what he wants. So long as this trait remains in human nature—which will probably be always—it is important that we should retain the secret ballot.

THE EXPORT drive is also reacting on farm production. Over 30 percent of all British tractors being produced are made for export but British farmers need tractors urgently.

The government is granting substantial assistance to British agriculture. Heavy expenditures are being made to improve water supplies and provide electricity but lack of manpower and materials is holding up both these departments. Housing must be divided between city and country. Labor cannot be diverted from industry to the farm without hurting the farmer. Food subsidies are running at the rate of $4,800,000 a day.

The campaign to save dollars would be more practical if it could be carried out without damage to other sections of Britain's economy. But more men on the land and more houses in the country cannot be achieved without a loss in other areas where they would be more immediately profitable.

Halt the drift from the farm is something few countries appear to have solved.

British Farm Dilemma

BY FRANK B. WALKER

London: Spokesmen for British agriculture have been quick to follow up recent government warnings regarding the shrinkage of the American and Canadian loans with the suggestion that much of this foreign exchange could be saved by the increased production of home grown food.

The value of British agricultural production at present is approximately $2,640,000,000. An increase of 10 per cent would save a considerable number of valuable dollars.

Proponents of increased production point out that acreage under cultivation was raised by 6,000,000 acres in one year after 1939; that 4,500,000 extra acres are under the plow since that year and they claim that 12 million acres remain which could be put into some form of production.

But the experts are not agreed that much acreage economically can be added to the total at present under cultivation. Nor would it be possible, even if the latter could be done, to find the labor to do it.

The eternal problem on Britain today is manpower and the British farm is particularly vulnerable in this regard. Of 1,048,000 farm workers, some 30,000 are land-girls and 150,000 are prisoners of war. Neither group is in any sense permanent employees.

Furthermore, the housing problems in rural England discourages any movement back to the farm.

Box Car Problem

BY J. H. GRAY

OTTAWA: The diversion of 1-196 box-cars a day from industrial users to the shipment of grain from the lakehead to sea-board means, among other things, a switch from low income to higher income freight.

The Financial Post lately carried an interesting article on railway operations last year compared with 1945. In 1945 the railways loaded 103.8 million tons of freight into 3.6 million cars. Last year they loaded 97.7 million tons into 3.7 million cars. The paper summed this up as "less freight, more loadings."

THIS MEANT, of course, less revenue to the railways per box-car. It came about because more goods were shipped in less-than-carload lots, while less goods were shipped in bulk as grain, coal and newsprint. The greater use being made of cars in shipments of goods from factory to wholesaler accentuated the tightness of the car supply and caused shortages of cars for bulk shipments.

Canadian railways today own about 115,000 box cars. This is approximately the same number as in 1929. Johnny Quilty Scores Winner In Long Battle

By Syd Thomas

THAT MOOSE JAW VICTORY OVER Brandon Elks last night revives the hope that Edmonton fans will be seeing Memorial Cup finalists in action this spring. But it never has been made clear just why Edmonton's chances to view Canada's two top junior squads, should be entirely dependent upon Canucks being the western representatives.

Naturally, the home city of the western winner should receive special consideration at the hands of the CANA in the awarding of the games, but after that has been taken care of—then what?

Doesn't it seem logical and fair that next in line of preference should come those centres which support the juniors best year in and year out, and which put forth the greatest efforts in attempting to provide a club which would worthily represent the west and at the same time be a credit to its own home city?

Edmonton Deserves a Game

BRANDON OF COURSE HASN'T artificial ice, which automatically puts Winnipeg into the lead. Then the Moose Jaw arena is rather small, but no doubt, Regina's Queen City Gardens would be the No. 2 choice of the Canucks.

Edmonton and Regina not only can accommodate, but actually do produce the biggest junior crowds in the west, with Winnipeg in third place and Moose Jaw next. Saskatchewan has been out of the junior field in a serious way for some time, and Lethbridge, where the ring is smaller even than Moose Jaw's, made its junior "A" debut only a year ago.

If the Canadians had reached the final round of the Abbott Cup this year and had been successful, Edmonton would have been forced to share generously the Memorial series with other cities in the west, presumably Regina and Winnipeg.

So why shouldn't the same treatment be accorded Edmonton, regardless as to whether Brandon or Moose Jaw reached the final? This city deserves at least one game, especially if the series goes more than four. The finest arena in the west is right here, and what's more, Edmonton packs in the most people to see hockey games.

Lane Home from St. Louis

DOUG LANE, BIG DEFENCEMAN with Edmonton Flyers last season, is back in the city and Doug Stevenson was another of the hockey playing fraternity to return early. Both expect to be here for the summer.

Lane, who went to Cleveland along with Bobby Carse last fall, finished the season with St. Louis Flyers. First a broken toe and later an injured jaw, cramped the Lane style until well into the season and he spent a term with Minneapolis before going on to St. Louis.

It will be surprising if the two Doug's don't turn up at Renfrew Park as soon as baseball activities commence. Lane, whose well-trained left toe taps 'em out at first base, was with the Alberta champion Army and Navy Cardinals last year. Stevenson was first string catcher for Bert Culver's Eskimos here in '46.

No News Yet Says Fred

ACCORDING TO KEN MCCONNELL of the Vancouver Province, "Edmonton baseball interests are tinkering with the idea of signing Joe Naples and Hec Highten."

Drumheller is planning to build an up-to-date arena this year and hopes to have artificial ice installed by next fall. The Alberta mining centre also is counting on going after junior "A" hockey for next season.

"Nothing has happened yet," said Fred Kemp, chairman of the Exhibition Association's hockey committee, when queried last night as to progress toward the appointment of a new coach for the Flyers. "But," he added, "we're at work though, and we'll be making an announcement just as soon as we possibly can."

Nelson, Demaret Lead Masters Golf

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP)—A couple of veteran campaigners, Byron Nelson and Jimmy Demaret, led the field of 59 in yesterday's opening round of the 11th annual masters golf tournament with three-under-par 69's.

The two native Texans, with Nelson now retired at Roanoke, Tex., and Demaret now playing out of Opa, Calif., had a one-stroke lead over seven others who tied at 70.

Nelson, winner of the event in 1937 and 1942 posted rounds of 35-34 over the par 72 (36-36) national layout, while Demaret shot the 6,800 yard course in 36-33.

TIED AT 70 were George Schembler of Salt Lake City, Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., Jimmy Ferrier of Chicago, Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz., Fred Haas of New Orleans, Del. and Lew Worsham of Washington, D.C.

Bobby Locke, the South African champion, rated as a dark-horse contender, had trouble with the greens and turned in a 38-36 card for a 74 total.

Demaret and Nelson both had birdies on the difficult 45-yard, par-5 15th hole, where Gene Sarazen made his famous double eagle in 1935. Demaret's second shot landed in the water almost at the front of the green but he took off his shoes and socks, rolled up his trousers and blasted the ball on to the green. He sank an eight-foot putt for a four.

GEORGE SCHOX of Mamaroneck, N.Y., one of the younger pros who now is fifth among the money winners, had a 71 after a bad start which saw him miss three consecutive putts of less than three feet.

Bobby Jones, the famed grand-slammer, playing with defending champion Herman Keiser, went out in even par 36, but ran into trouble on the second nine after three holes had dropped four strokes to par.

'Chase Winner Receives Welcome

DUBLIN, April 4 (AP)—Caughoo, winner of the Grand National steeplechase last Saturday at Aintree, got a hero's welcome home Thursday.

He was escorted through the street by a pipe band en route to his "private" barn on the farm of owner Jack McDowell at Sutton, county Dublin. He is the only race horse owned by McDowell.

The homecoming had been delayed 48 hours because Caughoo, despite his rise to turf fame, was only a horse to British emigration officials. They had prevented his sailing from England Tuesday until Caughoo had an export license.

AKRON, O., April 4 (AP)—Well-known champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson unleashed his heavy artillery last night and belted out Fred Wilson of Baltimore in the third of a scheduled non-title 10-rounder. Robinson weighed 153, Wilson 158.

Los Angeles 4-3

PORTLAND, Ore., April 4 (AP)—Playing coach John Polich fired in the winning goal in the last five minutes last night to give Los Angeles monarchs their third straight victory 4-3 over the Portland Eagles in the Pacific Coast Hockey League title playoff.

Decides to Quit

HAVANA, April 4 (AP)—Joe Tepic, former Penn State college baseball and football star who received a $17,000 bonus for signing a baseball contract with Brooklyn Dodgers last May, said Thursday he is quitting the club.

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP)—Big Johnny Quilty, star National Hockey League rookie of six years ago, sent Montreal Canadiens into the Stanley Cup final as he banged home a goal after nearly 37 minutes of overtime play here last night to down Boston Bruins 4-3 and give the Habits the semi-final series four games to one.

That goal, fired after Jimmy Peters and Murph Chamberlain swept in and old Murph's shot bounced off the post, sent a crowd of 12,658 home happy and ended the cup trail for a dead but dead game band of Bruins who battled in the last ditch in a rough bruising struggle.

MAURICE (ROCKET) Richard held to a single goal in the first four games, broke loose with a pair of timely scores in the third period. The first one deadlocked the game at 2-2 and then after Kenny Smith put Bruins ahead again, Richard banged home number two with two minutes to go in regular time.

Veteran Toe Blake, who played a standout game for the injury-ridden Canucks, put them in the lead in the second period, only to see bullet Joe Carveth and Mil Schmidt, Bruins scrapping, hustling, two way threat, notch a pair of goals within 22 seconds of each other and put the visitors ahead.

Bruins, who lost the first two games here 3-1 and 2-1, then took a 4-2 win in the first Boston game before Canadiens came back with a 5-1 blast Tuesday night, also lost to Canadians by a 4-1 edge in the cup final last spring.

THERE WERE CLOSE shaves in the game and Blake came within a fraction of an inch of sinking the winner with but a minute to play.

O'Connor fired one that bounded off the boards, Richard overskated the puck and then Blake, looking for an opening, hesitated and finally got a piece of the puck. It slid past Brimack, touched the post and rolled to the outside.

Carveth nearly sent the series back to Boston for a sixth game in the first few minutes of overtime, as he battered his rebound just outside the post as Durnan lay helpless.

COACH DICK IRVIN of Canadians with centres Elmer Lach and Ken Mosdell sidelined, had to juggle his lines all night, while Bruins also had to shake the lineup. They started rookie Pat Lund from Boston Olympics amateur squad at centre with Bauer and Dumart, but before the game was over Dit Clapper used just about every combination. Schmidt was on defence, centre and wing at various times as he carried the brunt of the load for the fighting Bruins.

Toe Blake, with a goal and two assists, led the scorers for the night and played an aggressive game to keep the new punch line in the fight. The Reay, Allen, McKay trio, which carried the load in Tuesday's game as Billy Reay collected four goals, also played a steady game but couldn't click for goals.

Pittsburgh Stops Hershey Bears 3-2

HERSHEY, Pa., April 4 (CP)—The fighting Pittsburgh Hornets came from behind to upset Hershey Bears 3-2 last night and even their best-of-seven American Hockey League playoff finals at one victory each.

Benson, Hamilton and Wilson were the Hornet Marksmen, Wilson getting the winner with less than two minutes left. Grosso and Bruce counted for the losers.

Seeks Guarantee Of Strong Club

HALIFAX, April 4 (CP)—Alex Nickerson said in a sports page story in the Halifax Herald Thursday the city may operate a senior hockey team if it is not satisfied Halifax will be represented by the strongest team possible.

He said the Civic Forum committee had called a meeting of all parties interested in operating a Halifax Club and will ask "for facts and figures—a definite guarantee that the city will be represented by the strongest possible club."

Toronto Increases Lead Over Red Wings

By Frank Kenneson

DETROIT, April 4 (CP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs made their few shots count heavily last night and moved within a single game of the Stanley Cup finals, by beating Detroit Red Wings 4-1. Leafs thus took a lead of 3-1 in games in the best-of-seven semi-final series.

Toronto Huskies Drop 100 Grand

TORONTO, April 4 (CP)—Will Toronto basketball fans, the few there are, get another chance to look at professional basketball next season? The answer to that highly debatable question hinges entirely on a little chat Maurice Podoloff, president of the Basketball Association of America will have with the backers of Toronto Huskies April 11.

Since the Huskies wound up the schedule in a last place tie and out of the playoffs with a disappointing 376 percentage the gossip was that the club might fold up next year. But its financial backers have already voted to sink $50,000 into another year after they have won the 1946-47 season. Now it is up to the club's management to make a final decision.

TORONTO FANS really didn't warm up to the game. Average attendance was about 1,000 a game, barely enough to pay the season's rent bill of $30,000 at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Should the lone Canadian entry in the BAA attempt to keep the flickering candle alight for another season, coach Red Rolfe may come up with a club strong enough to hit the playoff brackets.

HE GATHERED a reasonably powerful squad after his mid-season arrival as coach and plans to look over more prospects during the off season.

But one figure the backers counted on to sell the game in Toronto will be missing. That is Lew Hayman, who has informed the directors he won't be back as manager.

Two Backfielders Get Suspensions

PHILADELPHIA, April 4 (AP)—Merle Hapes and Frank Filchuck, New York Giants backfield players who became entangled in gamblers' attempts to fix the National Football League's championship game last Dec. 15 yesterday were suspended indefinitely in the latest chapter of the biggest sport scandal in the United States since the 1919 world series.

LEAGUE COMMISSIONER Bert Bell found the two "guilty of actions detrimental to the welfare of the National League and of professional football." He said:

"This suspension prevents the employment of Hapes or Filchuck by any club in the National Football League as player, coach or in any other capacity, whatsoever.

The decision came 24 hours after three New York men had been sentenced for attempting to bribe the players to "throw" the game.

Yacht Enthusiasts Organize April 9

The annual meeting of the Edmonton Yacht Club will be held on Wednesday, April 9 at 8 p.m. in the Civic Block for the purpose of electing officers for the coming season.

The Club is now located at Seba Beach and considerable interest is being taken not only in the 14 foot dinghy class but all other types of sailboats and it is hoped that these together with the 14 foot dinghies will be able to hold weekend races.

Anyone interested in sailing is cordially invited to attend this meeting and it is hoped there will be a good turnout of members and prospective members.

Canucks Back in Hunt Western Junior Title

MOOSE JAW, Sask., April 4 (CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks rebounded back into the fight for the Abbott Cup and the Western Canada junior hockey championship last night with a 3-3 victory over Brandon Elks in the fourth game of their series in which the Elks still hold a 2-1 margin in games with one tied.

The capacity crowd of 3,506 saw the Canucks, smarting under the 9-1 rout they suffered at Brandon's hands in the third game at Winnipeg, finally forge ahead for good in the third period with their hitherto powerless dynamite line of Vic Kerklewitz, Metro (Marcello) Prystai and Angus Jucker at last crashing through for goal.

PRYSTAI, PREVIOUSLY handcuffed by the shadowing tactics of Elks' Fred Dunsmore, tallied two goals—his first two of the series—and Kerklewitz got one. Defenceman Hal Tarala and Harvey Stein got the others and Dunsmore led Brandon's offensive with a pair. The third went to Joe Tergeson.

The teams split a pair in the first minute, Brandon coming back after Tarala had registered the first Canuck marker, and divided another two in the second, Prystai putting Canucks ahead in the first minute only to have Dunsmore come through with his second to tie it up.

PRYSTAI AND Kerklewitz gave the Canucks, fighting back from the brink of elimination, a 4-3 lead shortly after the midway point of the final and although Tergeson's counter reduced the margin Stein banged one in with 35 seconds of play remaining to make sure of the result.

BRANDON—Goal, McDermid; defence, Kaiser, Johnson; centre, Dunsmore; wings, Evans, Watties, sub: Burnan, Hergemeister, Watson, Tergeson, Campbell, Mann, Goodman.

MOOSE JAW—Goal, Bentley; defence, Tarala, Bedard; centre, Prystai; wings, Kerklewitz, Jucker, sub: Stein, H. Lovett, Wilson, G. Lovett, Hoskins, Thompson, Hunchuk.

Officials—Ref. Moon, Edmonton, and Chuck Hodgson, Port Arthur.

FIRST PERIOD: 1—Moose Jaw, Tarala 2:07; 2—Brandon, Dunsmore (Evans) 13:00; penalties—Bedard, Kaiser, Dunsmore.

SECOND PERIOD: 3—Moose Jaw, Prystai (Kerklewitz) 30; 4—Brandon, Dunsmore (Evans) 8:30; penalties—none.

THIRD PERIOD: 5—Moose Jaw, Prystai (Tarala) 7:45; 6—Moose Jaw, Kerklewitz (Jucker) 11:44; 7—Brandon, Tergeson (Kaiser) 16:31; 8—Moose Jaw, Stein (Hunchuk) 19:35; Penalties—none.

Wings' Sid Abel Out Indefinitely

DETROIT, April 4 (AP)—Sid Abel, veteran centre for Detroit Red Wings, was sent home Thursday with a lung ailment that was expected to keep him out of the line-up "indefinitely" in Detroit's National Hockey League playoff series with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Defenceman Bill Quackenbush meanwhile was deemed sufficiently recovered from a twisted knee to dress for last night's fourth game of the series here.

Ottawa Deadlocks Quebec Loop Final

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—Lude Cheek's third period goal gave Ottawa Senators a 2-1 victory over Montreal Royals last night to deadlock their best-of-seven Quebec Senior Hockey League finals at two games apiece. Jack Glenbrecht scored the other Ottawa tally while Bob Pepin was the Montreal marksmen.

C.D. Jacox Elected Manufacturers' Head

C. D. Jacox, president, Great Western Garment Co. Ltd., was unanimously elected chairman of the Alberta branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, at a meeting Thursday evening in the Jasper Room of the Macdonald hotel. J. H. Yuill, Medicine Hat, is vice-chairman.

C. D. JACOX

EDMONTON MEMBERS elected to the provincial executive committee are F. W. Kemp, W. R. Evans, A. J. Brown, J. A. Tupper, A. Chard, E. G. Ellerton, G. E. Hayward, J. Hes and R. E. Emery.

Principal speaker at the dinner which preceded the business meeting was Harper Prosser, M.L.A. whose topic was "The Business Man's Place in Our Future."

"In a full economy enterprise must yield a profit, if it is to survive," C. M. Moore, retiring chairman, told the members as he reviewed last year's activities.

"A halt must be called to the ever-increasing spiral of costs of industrial operation. This, in Alberta, has resulted in recent years from concessions made to labor, which have not been accompanied by a compensating increase in man-hour production," he added.

HE REPORTED that 40 Canadian commercial attaches, secretaries, trade commissioners and assistant trade commissioners had visited Alberta and had been given a view of the expanding industrial life of the province.

The year was a record one, he said, pointing out that 105 new businesses and industries were reported to have opened in the province, though serious handicaps face further expansions. About 10,000

Our Town

By Jack Scott

So to Bed

I am a guy who, when he reads through the back pages of any magazine, becomes dizzy with the wonderful advances in civilized living.

The front of the magazine may say we are going to annihilate ourselves with atom bombs in the next 10 years (I read dull conservative magazines), but in the bright shining world of the advertisements to the rear there is page after page of three-color proof that we will, at least, have reached a high degree of making life easier for ourselves in the few short years we have left.

If I had a trumpet I would give a crisp fanfare to the makers of pressure cookers, deodorants, aspirin, jockey shorts, electric lawn mowers, plastic dental plates, two-way stretch girdles and all the other advances on modern living which prove that life can be beautiful, if temporary.

And yet it seems to me that in all these blessings of inventiveness and "know how," as the Americans say, we have neglected one important aspect of modern civilization. Brace yourself for this, Tillamums:

Nobody has yet invented a bed big enough for a grown man!

A scientific study of beds and their relationship to grown men, which I have been conducting for several years, indicates proof positive that men are getting larger all the time and beds are getting smaller. Were it possible to take a nocturnal peek into the bedrooms of any group of average red-blooded Canadian males I venture to say that nine out of ten would be found with their feet sticking out and looking mighty hideous, too.

King-Size

The every-day, double, or two-passenger bed is, itself, a size in which only a drowsy midget could be thoroughly comfortable, but the beds on trains and in hotels are the real curse of mankind.

The other night I let my mind go back to a bed I once slept in at a place called Tilburg in Holland. The Dutch may not have pressure cookers or plastic dental plates, but by the Lord Harry they have beds that were made for comfort.

A fellow called Hec Stewart was billeted with me at that time in a middle-class Dutch home, and as we crawled into that immense bed on our first night he had hardly time to say "Goodnight" before he sank slowly out of sight. I, myself disappeared out of the world of the living into a beautiful bottomless, feathered pit.

On that very evening a paratroop attack was anticipated in Tilburg. The signal was to be the firing of two anti-aircraft guns less than a hundred yards from where we slept. During the night there was a false alarm that the Germans were dropping troops. The guns blazed for four minutes. Later in the evening the Germans shelled the town with a gigantic railway gun north of the town.

We learned all about it the next day after a night of uninterrupted sleep.

Twin Type

I haven't carried out any extensive investigation on the cause for the decline of the bed, but I will wager a small sum (say 15 cents) that it all began with the idiot who invented twin beds, probably one of the early interior decorators.

The twin bed is based on the theory that since two people may be comfortable in a double bed they may be equally comfortable, separately, in a half-sized each, a fine piece of mathematical logic which has given many a man a sleepless night.

I am occasionally exposed to twin beds in weekend visits to the fashionable home of a well-to-do friend and have to be ironed out like a pretzel, in the morning.

About the same time as the twin beds were coming on the market somebody else invented a chessterfield which makes up into a couch. This particular invention is based on the theory that human beings can shorten themselves like telescopes, without permanent injury. Personally, I would as soon spend a night in an accordion case.

What I'm looking for now is a bed about nine feet square, a suitable roost for a man who hopes to spend the best years of his life horizontally.

Needs for Current Year Reach New High

Community Chest Plans $108,000 Budget

Budget of $108,000 for the current year's maintenance expenditures, the largest amount distributed since its inception in 1941, was approved by the directors of the Community Chest, at their recent meeting, according to Frank J. Healy, chairman of the Chest's budget committee.

IT WAS REPORTED that collections in the last campaign were $3,000 below the expenditure figure, exclusive of $35,000 for building expansion plans of the Young Women's Christian Association, the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and the Salvation Army. This amount was specifically collected, and set aside for, the expansion of these buildings.

The principal reason for the increased need is the steady rise in living costs, along with the necessity for replacement of equipment, to meet growing needs, delayed in the past through war shortages, said Mr. Healy.

A SUGGESTION that the proposed deficit be financed on a temporary basis, until returns are received from the annual campaign for funds, also was approved by the directors. The annual campaign will be for a three-week period, starting around Oct. 6.

A list of the institutes, and the percentages allocated from the budget are as follows: Alberta Protestant Home for Children, 9 per cent; All People's Mission, 1.4 per cent; Beulah Home, 4.4 per cent; Boy Scouts Association, 2.3 per cent; Boys' Work Board (Edmonton), 8 per cent; Canadian National Institute for the Blind, 6.1 per cent.

Sisters of Service, 1.7 per cent; Council of Social Agencies, 5 per cent; Diocesan Council Social Service, 5 per cent; Edmonton Creche Society, 2.8 per cent; Family Welfare Bureau, 10.9 per cent; Franciscan Sisters of Atonement, 1.6 per cent; Girls' Work Board, 7 per cent; Good Shepherd Home, 5.5 per cent; IOOE, 2.6 per cent; Jewish Welfare Fund, 1.8 per cent; Misericordia Creche, 2.3 per cent; Navy League of Canada, (Sea Cadets) 5 per cent; O'Connell Institute, 4.4 per cent; Rosary Hall, 5 per cent; St. John's House, 7 per cent; St. Mary's Home, 3.7 per cent; Salvation Army, 14.1 per cent; Victorian Order of Nurses, 4 per cent; YMCA, 12.4 per cent; YWCA, 2.3 per cent. Total, $45 per cent. Administration 5.4 per cent.

Lions Club Hears Reports On Year
The annual windup meeting for the year, which consisted of various yearly reports, constituted the program at the luncheon of the Optimist Club in the Macdonald hotel on Thursday.

It was announced that membership in the club totalled 60, and the Junior Optimist Club, which is connected with boys' work, comprised of 30 members.

The sum of $900 was spent on boys work alone during the last year.

Dr. Lou Heard took over as chairman for the coming year. Reg. Easton is past president.

Many Attend City Churches

Snow flurries and a cold wind failed to deter devout Edmontonians from attending Good Friday services in churches of their choice. The day has been long recognized as one of austerity in commemoration of the death of Jesus Christ on the Cross, and services were designed to recall the scene on Calvary, to the Christian mind.

AMONG EARLY church services arranged for the day was Holy Communion service for young people at First Presbyterian church at 9:30 a.m. This was followed at 11 o'clock by a joint service for all Presbyterians in Edmonton.

Most services in the city commenced, however, at 11 o'clock including the three-hour meditation at St. Mark's Anglican church.

TWELVE O'CLOCK was the starting time for the three-hour meditations at the following Anglican churches: All Saints Cathedral, Christ Church, Holy Trinity, St. Faiths and St. John the Evangelist.

Metropolitan and Knox United churches met at Knox for joint worship at 11 o'clock, with the Rev. R. M. Thompson acting as preacher. Music was supplied by Knox Junior and Teen Age choirs.

THE GOOD FRIDAY message was conveyed to the congregation of Robertson United church in the sermon "A Life for a Look" by the Rev. Angus J. MacQueen. Musical director of this church, Prof. John Reymes-King, had selected "He Was Despised" from "The Messiah," as the solo to be sung by Mrs. H. G. Arnestad.

Services in the Pentecostal Tabernacle commenced at 10 o'clock, when the Rev. R. N. Buntin delivered the Easter message.

Morning services were followed by afternoon observances in some churches, and in others the meaning of the Good Friday message will be conveyed during the evening by singing of special cantatas and other music.

MARKETS CLOSED

This being Good Friday and a statutory holiday in Canada and the United States markets are closed in both countries, and no quotations appear in this issue of the paper. Quotations will be published in Saturday's issue.

KINSMEN MEETING

The Kinsmen Club held an entertainment program for their members in the Macdonald hotel Thursday, instead of Friday. Dalk Allen was in charge.

A banquet has been arranged for Tuesday night, and election results will be announced Wednesday.

An executive meeting will be held Saturday, said E. C. Ansley, secretary-treasurer.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

A meeting of the board of trustees of the Edmonton Public School Board will be held in the board room, Civic Block, on Tuesday, at 8 p.m.

By William E. McKenney
Today's hand came in for a great deal of discussion after one of the evening sessions of the world championship Masters individual tournament. Practically all of the North players were in a three no trump contract, and in most cases a club was opened.

Now the question is, what is the right line of play?

After winning the first club trick, declarer could count three spade tricks, two hearts and a diamond—seven tricks. He could develop another heart trick, and if the spades broke, he would have nine tricks.

But suppose the heart was wrong, or the spades did not break—should he go after the clubs or diamonds?

Some declarers won the first trick with the nine of clubs in dummy and immediately returned a club which East won with the queen. East returned a heart and the natural play was low from dummy. This allowed West to win with the queen, and if the diamond ten was returned at this point, the contract was defeated, as East and West could cash two diamonds, two clubs and the queen of hearts.

If the king of hearts had been played from dummy instead of a low heart, declarer would have to use the king of spades to get into his hand to play the third club, and he would have no other entry into his hand.

One of the players said he knew that East held four clubs. He also knew that he was going to lose two diamond tricks, but if the diamonds were split three-three, he could make the contract even though the queen of hearts was wrong and the spades did not break.

So he led a small diamond from dummy at trick two. East won with the queen and shifted to a heart. But declarer won with dummy's king and played another small diamond.

Three spade tricks, two hearts, three diamonds and a club gave him nine tricks.

The Book of Knowledge

(Department: The World)

This and the following articles are taken from the Book of Knowledge and can be clipped for saving in a reference book.

AMERICA BEFORE COLUMBUS

Life was simple for the early Indians in the California area roughly covering the present State. The food was chiefly acorns, varied by wild seeds, fish and small game. Acorns were not eaten raw, but made into bread. Houses were merely shelters of piled-up brushwood or poles or buttrushes. Rattles, tied together, made crude rafts. The Indians of this area had no canoes. They wore very little clothing. Religion meant a good deal to them, and they had elaborate ceremonies.

A tipi, or conical tent, of the Plains Indians, and a wigwam of the Eastern Indians.

Northeast of the California area was the very small Plateau area covering the eastern half of what is now Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, some of Idaho and southwestern Alberta.

This Indians of this area ate chiefly salmon, deer roots and berries. They knew how to dry and pulverize the salmon and roots for winter food. They had strange winter houses, half underground, covered with a conical roof with a hole to let the smoke from the fire escape. Their summer homes were tents or lean-to shelters. Their canoes were crudely made. They were, however, good basket-makers, and their clothing of deer-skin was well made. They had blankets of woven rabbit skin, and the warriors had fine, heavy shirts of leather.

Now we come to the Plains area—a great inland section roughly between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi River, ranging down into Texas, and up into southern Alberta, Saskatchewan and Ontario.

The Plains Indians were hunters, largely dependent upon the bison. Its flesh was their staple food, either fresh, or smoked and pulverized with fat and berries. Bison meat prepared in this last way is called pemmican. It keeps for a long time and is still used by travelers, particularly in the north.

The skins of bison were used for clothing, heavy blankets, and sometimes as coverings for the conical tents, tipi (teepees). Bison bones were sometimes made into TOMORROW: Seed-Markers for Your Garden.

tool handles: Bison sinew was used for lashing.

Before the coming of the white man, the hunting of the bison was a laborious task, in which a considerable number of hunters worked together to drive the animals into a stockade or to stampede them into rushing over the edge of a cliff. When stalking was employed, the hunter stole up on a herd with bow and spear.

When the Plains Indian and his family went on a journey, his tent and everything else he owned would be made into a bundle. This was lashed on two or three poles, and one end of the poles lashed to a dog's back. The other end dragged on the ground. This was called a travois.

To the Plains Indian a man's importance was judged by his prowess in war. The goal in warfare was not to slaughter the enemy, but to humble or shame them. Prowess was measured by a strict code. Each feat had a recognized value. If a man accomplished one of them, his achievement was shown by a particular type of decoration in the form of a dyed eagle feather on his headpiece. This was the basis of the Indian religion, which led to the belief that the Indian always wore feathers. Instead, the use of feathers on the Plains was restricted to accordance with military feats.

A "travois"—goods were strapped to the poles, then the dog dragged the contraption.

Plain life required co-operation. Bison hunting, for instance, needed a large number of individuals, and the hunters obeyed a rigid discipline. So, too, with the war party; those who followed a leader obeyed him without question, though a fighter had the right to distinguish himself in hand-to-hand conflict, or as a scout.

This same combination of individualism and joint action was seen also in the realm of religion. Each man sought divine favor by prayer and fasting, and by mutilating his body to show his bravery. But there were also elaborate ceremonies in which the whole community acted under the leadership of a single man or woman.

Should Study Girl As Much as Auto

Son, when you think about getting married, how much serious consideration do you give the matter? Do you try to use as much intelligence in picking out a wife as you would in buying an automobile? If you were to put all the money you had saved up into a new car you wouldn't purchase the first one you saw in a show window and about which you knew nothing except that you liked the color of its paint and found its new gadgets amusing. Nor would you let a glib salesman talk you in to buying a sport car when what you needed in your business was a truck.

NO, YOU'D look 'em over before you made your selection. You wouldn't put your good money into a car without finding out whether it was made of strong, honest material that would stand a lot of hard usage because you would expect it to last you a long time. You wouldn't buy a car just because it had flashy upholstery that caught your eye. You would see that you got something durable that would last. And when you made your final choice, it would most likely fall on a car made by some old established firm upon whose guarantee you could depend.

Well, when you go to pick out a wife, son, don't you think it is a chore that takes as much thought as buying a car? Yet thousands of men marry girls with whom they have only a few weeks' casual acquaintance. They marry girls without knowing whether they are strong and healthy or will incur never-ending doctors' bills. They marry girls without even knowing what sort of mothers-in-law they are getting, or what sort of in-laws they are bestowing upon their children.

BEFORE YOU get married, son, do try to find out whether you are really in love with the girl whom you are thinking of taking on as a life partner. Or whether you just have a passing fancy for her? Have you been caught by a pretty face? It is bound to be a losing bet, because time and babies and housework turn any glamour girl into just a wife who wouldn't take a blue ribbon in any beauty show.

Do you think of marriage as just a never-ending petting party? If you do, you are kidding yourself because there is nothing that you can get fed up on as quickly as too many kisses. Do you try to find out what sort of company the girl friend would make for the long pull of domesticity? Believe it or not, that is the most important question that any man ever confronts, for nothing kills so swiftly as boredom, and the worst fault that any wife can possibly have is just to be tiresome.

So before you pop the question to a girl, lend a critical ear to her line of conversation. If she is a glib, sentimentalist who wants to be told over and over again how much you love her and how you could not live without her, check out. That topic automatically ends at the altar. If she babbles free from her for your life. Beware of the girls who never talk about anything but themselves, their dates, and what I said to Mary and Mary said to me. Dull wives are the main reasons why husbands philander.

And, finally, son, remember this: That the success of every marriage depends more upon the husband than it does upon the wife, for the man does the picking and he is responsible for the kind of a girl he marries; whereas the woman has to take what she can get, and very often he isn't her taste at all. So give as much real thought to selecting your wife as you do to buying your new car.

Heads CMA

people were employed in Alberta during the year, 13,000 more than in 1945.

He hailed the St. Mary's-Milk river irrigation project in the south of the province as far-seeing. It will cause a flow of new wealth into the area, he thought.

IN HIS CLOSING remarks, he explained industry is anxious that production in the province be maintained on a competitive basis with the rest of the country and the world. This would be difficult if manufacturers were placed under mandatory regulations, which would have the ultimate effect of decreasing employment and curtailing production.

Reporting on the legislative committee of the Alberta branch, A. J. Maure dealt briefly with the New Labor Act. Efforts by labor groups to have incorporated into the act blanket provisions for the 40-hour week and 65 cents an hour minimum had not succeeded, he said.

"Your committee has impressed on the government on different occasions that we are not opposed to shorter hours of work and to the contrary that we are trying to bring this into operation, but that we oppose the attempt to force this issue by compulsory legislation," Mr. Maure said.

HE WARNED MEMBERS that meetings would be held during the coming year of the committee to study the Workmen's Compensation act, set up by the Legislature at its recent session. The committee will report at next year's session. It is headed by Dr. J. L. Robinson, Medicine Hat.

W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, explained the new labor act to the meeting.

Why Grow Old?

Penny Edwards

Swinging the arms in large circles is fun as you can see from the way Actress Penny Edwards is doing it. It's ideal for bust reduction, too.

By Josephine Lowman

This week I have been answering for you, some of the questions which I am asked in the classes I conduct personally. Today will be given to questions about the bust-line.

1. "Can I increase the size of my bust? If so, how long will it take?"

A. It is entirely possible to increase the bust measurement through exercise. Of course, if you are underweight, a gain in weight helps, too. There are no muscles in the bust itself and the only thing we can do is to build up the underlying chest muscles. This fills out the bustline. One record from my classes shows an increase of an inch and a half in four weeks time. This is most unusual. It generally takes several months. This is the exercise this woman did, as she said "Practically all day long."

Bend your elbows and raise your arms forward, shoulder height. Grasp the forearm of your left arm with your right hand and the forearm of your right arm with your left hand. Push the elbows toward each other with a jerky motion, resisting slightly with your hands. Continue.

2. "Can I reduce my bust?"

A. This is most difficult to do. A loss of weight shows in the bust-line but many women are burdened by extremely large busts even when their weight returns to normal. There is exercise which I have found to be effective in speeding the loss of inches. Stand tall with your toes pointing forward. Make large circles with your arms, first crossing them in front of your body and then reaching high over your head. As you bring your arms down sideways, pull BACK. This is the important part of the exercise. This must be done at least 50 times at night and about 50 times in the morning.

Few women are satisfied with their bust measurement. If you are dissatisfied with yours and want help, send a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 15 "Bust Reduction" or for development leaflet No. 7 "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust—Reverse" depending on which you require, to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

being driven frantic by her mother-in-law. Her baby is small for its age, without teeth at eight months and without the strength to turn over by herself. "My mother-in-law insists on taking charge of the baby. She sleeps with her and feeds her from her own plate. She knows I don't like this, but she won't give the baby as much food as I think she should have. She gives me nothing but sweet at the 2 p.m. feeding. I have fussed and quarreled about this but she bosses the house and my husband."

What are you thinking of to do with your mother-in-law to get in your own skin and so disastrous to the baby? Even if this is her house, it is YOUR baby. Take the baby to a good pediatrician and have it vaccinated with immunization to give the baby some real protection. You can't give the baby the Vitamin D you think has. You can find some but it won't do any good.

Now, baby, should sleep alone in the crib and not with anyone. It is necessary as well as a dangerous practice from the standpoint of health to feed a baby with the utensils or from the plate of any adult. She is entitled to her own feeding utensils which should be well washed and boiled before using.

Don't fuss, talk and argue. Assume the responsibility of your baby's care and I don't think anyone will take it from you.

Our leaflet No. 22 on "Formula and Early Feeding" may be had by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Jerusalem Children Play Despite Civil Strife, Terrorism

It's a troubled street, this typical street in the Mea Shearim section of Jerusalem. But the children, martial law recently lifted, seem unconcerned over and unaffected by the civil strife and terrorism shaking the Holy Land.

MacArthur Is Silk Merchant But Hasn't Any Customers

By Ralph J. Donaldson

(North American Newspaper Alliance)

CLEVELAND.—In addition to all his other titles and duties, General of the Army Douglas MacArthur might well be described as the world's biggest silk merchant. He has some 300,000 bales of raw silk at present—with more being produced every day.

All he lacks is customers. To help Japan become self-sustaining and to reduce the cost of the occupation, MacArthur at one time arranged for the export of raw silk to the United States.

Under his plan, the Japanese government paid for the cost of producing the silk in yen. The silk then was turned over to the United States Commercial corp., a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corp., which was to sell the silk to American mills for dollars. The dollars were then to be used to buy food which would be shipped to Japan.

No Market Found
But it appeared that there was little or no market for raw silk in the U.S. Rayon and nylon fabrics have replaced silk to a large extent. Moreover, textile machinery which formerly was used to process raw silk has been largely replaced by other types of machinery not suited for raw silk.

Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson is greatly concerned about the silk situation, as is General MacArthur. He is attempting to enlist the services of textile experts who will tackle the problem and find some solution for it, but so far has not had conspicuous success. One reason perhaps is that most textile experts in the U.S. are not interested in bringing silk back on the world market where it would compete with other fabrics.

Yen Has No Value
A fundamental obstacle hampering the establishment of a silk trade with Japan, however, is the fact that Japanese currency has no value outside Japan. An American businessman would have to take dollars and convert them into yen at the artificial rate of 15 to 1. The actual value of the yen is probably from 75 to 100 to the dollar. Thus, he would be paying five or six times the amount the silk was actually worth.

American soldiers also are the victims of the arbitrary exchange rate of 15 yen to one occupation dollar. Their purchases, made at post exchanges, which amount to more than $5,000,000 a month, are at inflated prices. But the inflation is held to a minimum because the goods are sold practically at cost. The bulk of the silk, however, is reserved for foreign export—but with few buyers in sight.

TOO TOUGH
A man bought a house on the boundary separating Russia from Romania, but was uncertain which country it was in, especially as he received demand notes for taxes from the officials of both.

A surveyor employed to determine the question had much difficulty in doing so. However, six months later he gave his verdict. "The house," he said, "is definitely in Romania."

"Thank Heaven!" ejaculated the owner; "I couldn't possibly stand another Russian winter."
